Hobart Current: Epoch

Explore life as we step into a new era

17 November 2023 – 11 February 2024

Hobart Current: Epoch is a thought-provoking contemporary art program and exhibition, featuring new works created by 10 artists in response to the theme of 'epoch'. The artworks span the mediums of digital content, installation, spoken word, sound-works and visual art.

The program begins with an exhibition at the Tasmanian Museum and Art Gallery (TMAG). Three of the works are on display at outdoor sites within the Hobart CBD.

Explore the city further with a range of community artworks on the theme 'epoch'.

Hobart Current is a major biennial partnership between the City of Hobart and TMAG.

The City of Hobart and the Tasmanian Museum and Art Gallery pay their respects to the original owners of the land upon which we work, the Muwinina and Mumirimina people, who did not survive British colonisation. We acknowledge the Tasmanian Aboriginal community as the continuing custodians of Iutruwita (Tasmania) and honour Aboriginal Elders past and present.

Artworks at TMAG

Tasmanian Museum and Art Gallery
17 November 2023 – 11 February 2024
10 am – 4 pm

Ignition, 2023

Lou Conboy (Tasmania)

An epoch is sparked by a moment, marking a change and movement into a new era. In this defined moment where epoch is birthed, ignition is irrepresible. Lou Conboy's work attempts to capture this intangible moment.

The Weight of Things, 2023

Tricky Walsh (Tasmania)

The Weight of Things is a science fiction story about a world like ours that kept producing and hoarding too much information. In this world, information is the next new state of matter, but it's also a ravenous and invasive thing that tries to take over any space it can find.

Relics Act, 2023

Nathan Maynard (Tasmania)

On Saturday 4 March 2023, Nathan Maynard published an advertisement in The Age classified seeking 'an Australian of British descent who is willing to donate their future deceased body to an art installation'. Relics Act is the result of his conversations with project volunteer, Tony.

HERE, NOW AND AGAIN (AND AGAIN, AND AGAIN), 2023

Georgia Morgan (Tasmania)

Georgia Morgan's works HERE, NOW AND AGAIN (AND AGAIN, AND AGAIN), draw from her understanding of Tamil Hindu culture and rituals, the aesthetics of her immediate surroundings, an oral family history, and her current understanding of life and death as a 30-year-old female artist.

Artworks in public spaces

St David's Park, Purdy's Mart, Argyle Street
17 November 2023 – 11 February 2024

Present Being, 2023

Wona Bae and Charlie Lawler (Tasmania)

In their large-scale installation Present Being, Wona Bae and Charlie Lawler explore their generation's relationship with the natural world and ponder how future generations will experience it.

Plenty can be seen in the background, 2023

Florence Shaw (UK)

Florence Shaw has responded to 'epoch' with a poem exploring the history of TMAG's Private Secretary's Cottage, and themes of obfuscation: the act of obscuring, muddling or concealing.

Post-Cringe, 2023

Isabella Maria Foster (Tasmania), TMAG building, Argyle Street

Once a descriptor of shame, the term 'cringe' has resurfaced in contemporary culture with a prefix. Post-Cringe is a call to embrace cringe as a new tradition. It asks us to transcend the awkward and uncomfortable moments that often plague our virtual realities.

Skylight Arcade, 2023

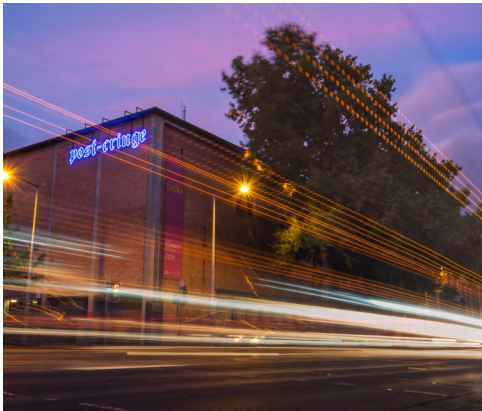

Rochelle Hayley (NSW), Purdy's Mart

Rochelle Hayley's suspended arches create a sense of passage and discovery. The work invites visitors to reflect on their personal journeys as well as the moment of crossing the threshold – a space where future promise and nostalgia coexist.

The Depths of Intimacy, 2023

Arushi Jain (USA), St David's Park

In this audio installation, Brooklyn-based synthesist and software engineer Arushi Jain explores how humans find connection in a world where immeasurable moments exist in virtual spaces.
